With the help of COMPort Assignment Utility, you can efficiently rearrange COM ports on your computer without risk of damaging anything. The utility allows you to define a port to be dropped (which is the actual COM port number) and then the application can automatically generate a new number assigned to that port (any port number that has not been used by any other device).

COMPort Assignment Utility Features: The application has all the features of an ordinary COM port utility but with a better interface and additional stability. The application allows you to define a port to be dropped (which is the actual COM port number) and then the application can automatically generate a new number assigned to that port (any port number that has not been used by any other device). The program supports all the common COM ports that are typically used with other devices. To keep the application as simple as possible, the application allows you to simply pick the port you wish to modify and then pick another COM number that will be assigned to that port. Assignment Utility Instructions : Do you use Future Technology Devices International? If so, I would love to have your feedback on this software! Please take this brief survey: When should i use jQuery and when should i use prototype Sorry for the newb question, I currently work with the application which is currently using prototype. But with application grow, it is becoming a bit larger and develop time is taking more time. So i would like to try to use jQuery, but i can not decide which approach should i use. Application basically is about : User enters a value in a text field and select the options from dropdown. So just need to load these three dropdown options dynamically with one form. A: A good rule of thumb is to use jQuery if you are in doubt. If you are not, then prototype is good. A: I think you should use the tool that best fits your needs. Personally I never use jQuery unless I have a
